Schönbrunn Palace Conference Centre

A historic ambience for modern ideas

Schönbrunn Palace Conference Centre

The Schönbrunn Palace Conference Centre is located in the former Apothecaries' Wing on the east side of the extensive palace grounds. Over a total area of 2,700 m<sup>2</sup>, eight rooms offer 870 m<sup>2</sup> of space in a variety of sizes and ambiances for conferences, symposia and events, providing the perfect setting for all kinds of functions.

A congenial atmosphere for conferences and meetings

Access to a leafy inner courtyard and to the Orangery Garden provides for relaxing breaks during the focused intensity of conferences, working groups or meetings. The immediate proximity of the palace park and its attractions offers the possibility of combined arrangements within the context of seminars and events. Formerly housing the Cedrat House and the apothecary of the imperial family, this unusual conference venue is today notable for its atmosphere in which intensely focused discussion and debate can go hand in hand with wellbeing and relaxation.

Celebrating in style

There's plenty of creative scope for celebrations of every kind, from stylish presentations of new enterprises, initiatives or products, convivial gatherings for company celebrations and events, to birthdays, weddings or other private festivities.

Ambience

The ambience has been carefully designed to activate the five senses in order to enhance a feeling of wellbeing within the conference centre. This includes numerous optical and haptic elements designed according to the principles of Feng Shui. Variable and coloured lighting can be deployed to create a particular mood and ambience.

Modern design and technology

Contemporary interior design and the latest technology including WLAN access complement the historic architectural fabric. An innovative adiabatic ventilation system ensures a pleasant indoor climate. Cold from evaporation by night cools the rooms on hot days sustainably, without the need for electricity. As part of our all-round service, it goes without saying that the Conference Centre is barrier-free, that is, fully wheelchair accessible.

Meetings and celebrations in an unusual architectural setting

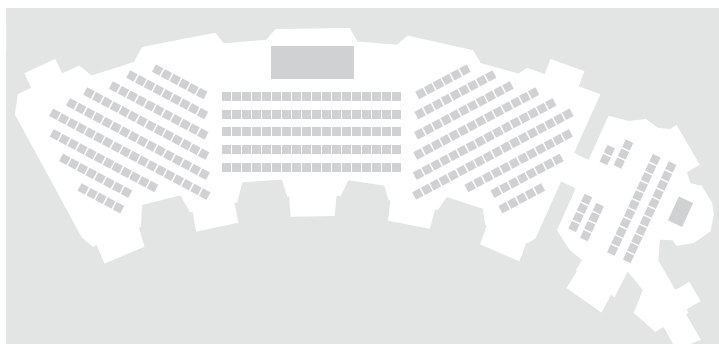

With its curving shape and arched ceiling the centre's largest room offers the perfect setting for larger conferences or meetings as well as a stylish venue for receptions and formal dinners. The large french windows give onto a view of the Baroque Orangery Garden. The terrace along the façade can be used by smokers during breaks.

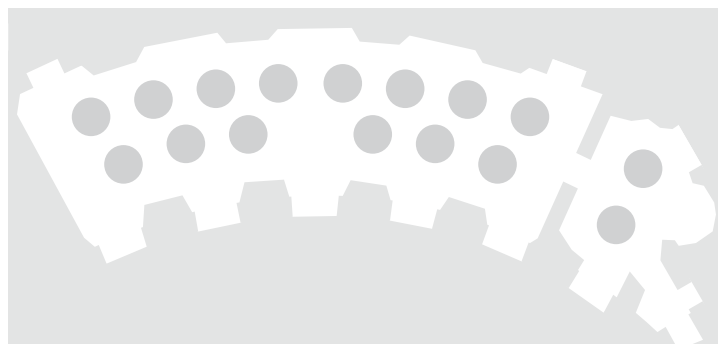

This room was once used for overwintering rare citron trees, a use reflected in the artistic decoration of the interior.

The adjoining Room 1a provides extra space and is accessed through double doors.
